What is Sledge Hockey

Sledge hockey (or Sled Hockey in the United States) is the Paralympic version of ice hockey. It is fast-paced, highly physical, and played by athletes with a physical disability. Sledge hockey is an extremely exciting game for players and spectators and is currently played in 15 countries. To date, Canada, Norway, the USA, and Sweden have dominated international competitions, although strength is growing among other national teams.

Sledge hockey was first invented at a rehabilitation centre in Stockholm, Sweden in the early 1960's by a group of people who wanted to continue playing hockey despite their physical disabilities. It has continued to grow in popularity every year.

Players sit in specially designed sleds (sledges) which are custom molded with two regular sized aluminum hockey skate blades. Two sticks are used to pass, stick handle, and shoot, as well as to propel and manoeuvre the sledge. Sledge hockey incorporates the same rules and discipline structure as regular ice hockey.

Sledge hockey has become one of the biggest spectator attractions at the Winter Paralympics. Come out and see what it is all about at the Cruisers Cup 2016.

Eighth Annual Cruisers Cup

Cruisers Sports for the Physically Disabled is proud to host our eighth International Sledge Hockey Tournament. Teams from across Ontario and the United States will come together to compete in one of four divisions and introducing our newly created novice division

Sledge hockey only has one other tournament in Ontario each year. With the support of community minded individuals and corporations, we are able to provide an additional tournament for individuals with physical disabilities.
